Liquidity Risks
You are exposed to Liquidity risk            The ILP Sub-Fund is not listed and you can redeem only on Business Days. There is no secondary market for the ILP Sub-Fund. Product-Specific Risks
You are exposed to exchange risk            The Underlying Fund may be invested, accordingly to variable proportions and limits, in values and instruments expressed in other currencies than the base currency of the Underlying Fund and, consequently, may lead to be exposed to a variation of the exchange rates. You are exposed to risk of small and medium companies            Investment in smaller and medium companies offers the possibility of higher returns but may also involve a higher degree of risk, due to higher risks of failure or bankruptcy and due to a more reduced volume of quoted securities and to the accentuated movements that it implies. You are exposed to developing countries risk            Investments in securities of Issuers of Developing Countries involve special considerations and risks, including the risks associated with internationally investing generally, such as currency fluctuations, the risks of investing in countries with smaller capital markets, limited liquidity, price volatility, different conditions applying to transaction and control and restrictions on foreign investment, as well as risks associated with Developing Countries economies, including high inflation and interest rates, large amounts of external debt and political and social uncertainties. You are exposed to volatility risk            The Underlying Fund may be exposed to risk of volatility of the equity markets and could thus be subject to strong movements within the limit of the target Value at Risk. A strong movement of the volatility of the equity markets could negatively impact the performance of the Underlying Fund according to its investment objective. Volatility means a statistical measure of the dispersion of returns for a given security.
